Report of the Event

Theme: Digit ALL: Innovation and technology for gender equality,”

AIM: International Women's Day is an occasion to celebrate the progress made towards achieving gender equality and women's empowerment but also to critically reflect on those accomplishments and strive for a greater momentum towards gender equality worldwide.

Speaker:

We have come together on this International Women’s Day to celebrate the power and prowess of women to harness the benefits of innovation and technological change and to explore how we can work together to accelerate progress and achieve gender equality in the digital age.

Our world becomes more interconnected by the day, and technology allows us to get closer to each other, communicate faster and learn more quickly of news from around the world.

This year’s theme, “Digit ALL: Innovation and technology for gender equality,” asks us to consider how we can make the best use of technology and innovation to ensure that we move forward in a more inclusive and equitable manner, keeping in mind the hurdles many women and girls face in realizing their full potential.

Our digital spaces are not yet gender-neutral and gender-inclusive.

The challenges women and girls face in the digital age are many and intersecting.

Education systems perpetuate stereotypes, pushing girls away from studying science, technology, engineering and mathematics (or STEM) subjects. Women are also less likely to work in STEM sectors, contributing to innovations failing to consider women’s unique needs in their designs.

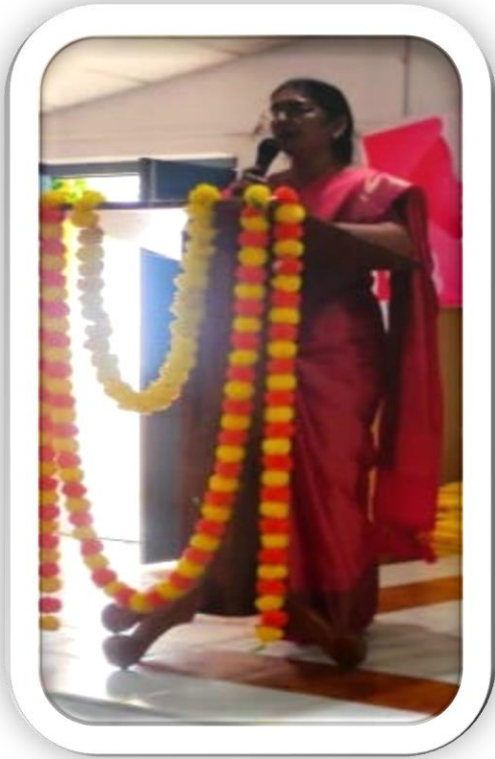

Conclusion: On this International Women’s Day, let us reaffirm our shared commitment to “leaving no one behind” and accelerating our efforts towards building a more secure, accessible, inclusive and equitable digital world for all of us and for women and girls in particular.
